Eric Christmas in "Two For Company"

Once again the Coleman Lions Club are pleased to have been able to present to the people of Coleman a show that was different from the ordinary type entertainment. We as a club feel that the show was well received and although it was a disappointment to find that Anna Reiser had been injured and was not able to be present. Mr. Christmas did present a full evening of fun and entertainment.

Mr. Christmas is an international Radio and T.V. Star and his "voice" is well known to many radio fans even in Coleman.

A number of the "voices", situations, and incidents presented by Mr. Christmas during the show were a real dramatic triumph. Many were funny and enjoyed by young and old alike. Others were dramatic and filled with suspense and many recalled old time stories that we all can remember.

The Lion's Club hopes that, if Mr. Christmas, with a larger troop of actors and actresses, makes another tour that Coleman will again be one of his stops.

The Club would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those who turned out and we assure everyone that any money raised will be spent in the community in one way or another. Any help offered to the Lions Club is help offered to your community.

Benefit Concert Enjoyed By Capacity Audience

A variety concert under the direction of Mrs. Buckna, and sponsored by the Coleman Junior High School, raised almost $200 for the Olive Berikoff fund.

The concert was very well received by an over-capacity crowd and included many interesting items and talented Crow's Nest Pass children.

Piano and piano accordion pupils from Mrs. Buckna's music studio, vocal pupils of Mrs. Hill, dancing pupils of Mrs. Jepson's Bellevue dancing classes, tumbling from the Coleman school, and wood-wind players from the Crow's Nest Pass Band were interestingly arranged in well balanced and varied program.

Gay costuming helped immensely with the evening's entertainment and the entire cast and sponsors are to be congratulated for an evening of good entertainment. Coleman townspeople also showed a good community spirit in their excellent support of the event.

Mixed Chorus To Feature Yule Music

BLAIRMORE — The Crow's Nest Pass Mixed Chorus, planning on holding a Christmas festival, has announced that the evening of Yule music will be held in the Elks Hall on the evening of Dec. 21. The Blairmore Elks lodge is sponsoring the concert.

Members of the chorus have been practicing for this event for the past few weeks. There is still a need of male voices to fill in the tenor and bass sections of the chorus. Interested males are invited to attend the rehearsals which are held in the United Church auditorium at 7:30 p.m. on Monday evenings.

You can create unusual gift wrapping effects this year using pieces of leftover wallpaper. Tune the wallpaper "wrappings" to the contents of the package — a delicate floral design for cosmetics, gaily striped paper for the sportsman's gift, or a fleecy lamb pattern for the tiny tot's present.

Coleman Council Take Dim View of Bus Service

Coleman town council met here Tuesday evening took a dim view of the service being rendered by the Greyhound Bus Line to the residents of Coleman. Another letter of complaint was received by the Coleman council relating an incident which took place at the bus stop in Coleman during last weekend when an oil company employee, who had spent the long week-end visiting with his Coleman parents, was obliged to stand outside from 2:05 a.m. to 4 a.m. in 35 below zero weather to catch a bus bound for Edmonton and Peace River.

The youth, blue with cold, returned to his folks' home after the long wait and after joining long distance found out the bus was to be hours late.

The council for some time has been urging that a proper bus stop should be arranged in town as the present stop is located a half mile from the town centre on No. 3 highway. Another complaint is that there is no shelter, no place for passengers waiting to board a bus and no time schedule to indicate if the bus will be on time or late as in the case stated.

Council is of the firm opinion that if a franchise is given to a bus company that the bus company should be obligated to look after the welfare of its patrons. Copies of the letter received by council will be sent to the Greyhound Bus Lines and to the Transport Department.

New Pipeline
It was reported the new pipeline for water, being built by the town to service West Coleman, was within 30 feet of completion and that work was progressing favorably. Council discussed the erection of a temporary sidewalk around the bluff where the pipeline was being laid and it was agreed that a temporary walk be constructed to the same level as the road. In this way snow removal from the pathway could be done while road cleaning was done in winter. Several poles will be installed along the walk so that cars do not mistake the pedestrian walk for the highway.

Drainage Problems
Several drainage problems that have been causing grief to the town on 5th and 6th Streets were again brought up and council felt that since there was a surplus from the annual budgeted last year for this type of work that a full job be done next spring. A number of new concrete sidewalks in various parts of town will also be built.

The matter of trailers parking in the C.P.R. right of way in West Coleman will be looked into. The town has no trailer parking facilities in town to accommodate a number of families who have moved into town. The owners have gained employment as truckers on the Tert Mountain Strip Mine.

Town foreman John Kinnear will be instructed to cut a number of Christmas trees to be located at various spots along the main street as decoration for the forthcoming Christmas season. The archway over No. 3 highway will again be decorated with evergreen branches and colored light and a Christmas Tree will be set up in the town park.

A report from F. S. Kennedy, municipal inspector, indicated that the town was being operated in a very efficient manner. Town foreman John Kinnear was appointed as enumerator.

Burgman Heads Gala Committee

Executive of the Blairmore Board of Trade met here last week to discuss plans for the annual Crow's Nest Pass Winter Carnival and to form committees to operate the annual event. Dr. R. B. Burgman was appointed chairman of the affair. Another meeting of the board will be held in the U.I.C. offices on Wednesday, November 23, when committees will be selected to steer the various phases of the fete.

Tentative date set for the Winter Carnival is the week-end of February 18 when the annual Crow's Nest Pass Ski Club tournament is held on the Blairmore Ski hill.

S-D Day, Thurs., Dec. 1st

S-D Day (Safe Driving Day) will be next Thursday, December 1st, 1955. It is being conducted simultaneously in Canada and all 48 States of the U.S. It is being sponsored in Canada by the Canadian Highway Safety Conference, aided by various public-spirited organizations across the country. It will be a day to demonstrate that traffic accidents can be reduced materially when all motorists and pedestrians do their part.

Purpose of S-D Day will be to show that motorists and pedestrians can eliminate traffic accidents by their own actions. By asking everyone in the country, in every community, to join in a 24-hour demonstration, dramatic and convincing results can be achieved, say the sponsors.

The day will demonstrate that the place to attack the traffic safety problem is in the community and that the responsibility rests upon each individual. It will implant in the minds of all motorists and pedestrians the realization that if they can greatly reduce accidents on S-D Day, they can do so every day in the year.

The traffic problem is a national one, a community one, and one that concerns each individual. Almost every person has a neighbor, a friend, or a member of the family who has been injured in a traffic accident at some time. The problem is with us every hour of the day. In 1954, 2586 persons were killed in traffic accidents across Canada, and 38,300 were killed in the U.S.A. — one death for every 13 1/4 minutes.

Last year, there were 58,738 persons injured in traffic accidents in Canada. U.S. traffic injuries amounted to 1,350,000, one injury every 23 seconds. For every fatality, one or more persons were totally and permanently disabled, thereby becoming a financial burden, either to his family, or to the community, or both.

The economic loss in connection with traffic accidents in Canada in 1954 is estimated at approximately $100 million. Full cost of traffic accidents each year, in Canada and the U.S., is considered to be almost five times as great as the annual total of fire losses in the two countries.

Traffic accidents last year were the greatest single killer of persons between the ages of three and 40. They were a big killer of children.

Card of Thanks

On behalf of the Coleman Legion, B.E.S.L., I wish to thank Mr. H. Allen, Principal, and his staff for their excellent co-operation regarding this competition, and also the three kind gentlemen of Coleman who judged this admirable effort of the students. A big thank you to the students, too.

F. BEDDINGTON,
Chairman, Poppy Campaign

ren in early school years, and of young people between the ages of 15 and 24. They killed almost twice as many workers as were killed in occupational accidents not involving vehicles.

How many are doomed? Approximately 30,000 persons were killed in traffic accidents in Canada in the past twenty years. At the present rate, less than half as long will be required to kill the next 30,000! With the substantial increase in the number of motor vehicles and drivers on the streets and highways of this country, and experts say that this increase will continue fairly consistently for at least the next 20 years, in order to simply hold our own — to keep traffic fatalities in Canada at approximately their present number — we shall have to cut our mileage death rate substantially in the coming years.

This can be done, but not unless individual citizens recognize that it must be done, and are willing, as individuals and members of various organizations, to join in a united effort to apply the tested and proven methods of accident prevention. Observe the letter and spirit of all traffic regulations. Be courteous to every driver and pedestrian — practice sportsmanship. Give full attention in driving and walking. In short: Drive and walk as you would have others drive and walk. Specific driving and walking rules are considered the most important in applying the above fundamental principles.

Coal Mines In Pass Busy, Few Men Idle

Full time work is in full swing in all phases of Crow's Nest Pass industry and according to P. J. Lote, manager of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, there is very little unemployment in this entire area.

At present there are no unemployed men in Coleman as the Coleman Collieries have rehired all men available that were laid off from working in the Coleman mines during the past year. At least 30 men were hired on at the mine this week and these men consist of those that have been let off of road and forestry work for the winter months. All of these men have been absorbed by the Coleman Collieries this week.

Mines on the British Columbia side of the Crow's Nest Pass have been having full time work since last August. Mines on that side of the border includes the Michel and Elk River Collieries.

On the Alberta side the coal mines in Bellevue have been enjoying a four and five-day week since Oct. 1st, while the mines in Coleman have been working a five-day week with the exception of having one idle day since Oct. 1st. In Blairmore the mining industry has been working a three-day week since Oct. 1, with many of the coal miners working on idle days.

With the advent of cold weather all lumbering operations in the Crow's Nest Pass district including bush camps and sawmills have stepped up operations and prospects are good for the expansion of the industry in this area.

Better Quality Coal At Fair Price Would Help Industry

Dave Young, manager of Coleman Collieries, gave an interesting address on the coal industry at the Coleman Lions Club meeting held here Tuesday evening. In his address, Mr. Young pointed out that the present coal market had dwindled to its present volume due to competition in price from oil and gas. Mr. Young was of the opinion the coal market would settle itself at so many millions of tons production yearly after which he felt the industry would increase with the general development of industry in Canada. He said the secret of rebuilding the market was to produce and sell a good quality coal at a fair price.

The speaker also gave a talk on his visits to the American coalfields, where he said that strip mining operations were carried out on a large scale and that through mechanical methods used coal was produced at a cost of 35 cents per ton. Mr. Young pointed out he was not advocating lower wages for miners, but felt that the cost of producing coal must be reduced in order that coal be competitive with other fuels.

My Friendship Journey

In the months of July and August last summer there had been held a gigantic Youth and Students Festival in the city of Warsaw, Poland, where the young people of all countries have displayed the art of music, painting, wood-carving, folk dances, sports, etc.

Canadian youth had been represented by 52 young Canadians, who have displayed the Canadian culture to the people of other nations. Even Canadian Indians have displayed their art-work at the festival — the 72-year-old Jimmie John and his daughter Edna from the British Columbia Indian tribe Nooka, have made and painted a totem "Thunder Bird" which had won the second prize of the festival.

During the festival were shown films from many countries and by efforts of Canadian legation in Warsaw, the Canadian documentary films were shown to the youth of the festival.

The Canadian youth delegation has come from the festival with high enthusiasm and will share the same in their reports at the public meetings. In fact this matter has become so popular that at the meeting in Volin (Peace River country) was presented Mr. Solon Low, leader of the Social Credit Party, listening to the report with interest, and that United Church Youth Peoples group in Edmonton has invited Marie Harasym to speak to the club.

Coleman people will have an opportunity to hear the report of Marie Harasym Friday, December 2nd at 7 p.m. in the Union hall. There also will be an interesting display of gifts and souvenirs brought in by delegation from other countries. The committee extends an invitation to school students, teachers, clergy and to the public in general to come and hear the report of Marie Harasym.

The meeting is sponsored by the Association of United Ukrainian Canadians.

Weather Slows Road Program

Government work crews are installing "slow" and "detour" signs at the temporary bridge over the Crow's Nest river in west Blairmore judging by appearances work on this structure will be left over for some time. Most of the forms and supports have been removed from the new bridge over the Crow's Nest river at Frank but some fill work still has to be finished at either end of the bridge before it will be opened to the driving public.

Meanwhile, crews have closed down operations on the road work and it is assumed that this program will resume early in spring so that the new road will be completed next summer. Weather conditions during the past month prevented the crews from laying the base course on the highway.

Blairmore School, Hospital Requisitions To Be Paid

Two large obligations were ordered paid by town council at its meeting Friday evening when the council authorized payment of $22,803.80 on the school requisition and the sum of $14,643.46 to clear off the annual hospital requisition.

Council again discussed installation of the new mercury vapor luminaire lamps along Main street and it was learned that the small transformers for each lamp had not yet been shipped preventing use of the lamps. Now that cold weather had set in council felt the lamps could not be installed this season, hence with a lack of storage space in the town shop, it was agreed they be returned to the Northern Electric Company. Similar lamps will be purchased for installation early in spring.

Coun. Tom Gibos, also fire chief presented a list of prices to the council on various fire extinguishers that he felt should be installed in the new Blairmore Ice Centre. Mr. Gibos was authorized to order two soda and acid fire extinguishers, one 15 pound CO2 chemical extinguisher for the engine room of the arena and a dry chemical fire extinguisher for the coffee bar in the arena. While ordering this equipment Mr. Gibos will also purchase 100 feet of 1-inch rubber hose for flooding purposes at the arena.

While discussing the new arena council debated hiring an assistant for the ice maker and it was decided to turn the matter over to the arena operational committee for consideration.

With the arena now in operation the town of Blairmore arena fund was set up and the town's finance committee comprising town secretary Cecil Larabastier, Mayor William Gray and Coun. Wm. Jallep were authorized to act as signing officers.

Council agreed upon the date of December 13 to hold the annual court of revision. The hearing will be held in the Blairmore Union hall at 7 p.m., December 13.

Cut Library Grant
After stuffing a request from the Blairmore Public Library for the annual grant council decided to cut the annual grant in half from $150 to the sum of $75. The library will be requested to send in a report of how many books are purchased annually, how large the circulation of books is annually and other information.

A by-law covering an annual donation of $25 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind had its third reading.

Coun. Alrik Tiberg reported there was much radio interference in the south portion of Blairmore which he felt was arising from a stoker motor. The town foreman will make a check. It was also reported that the street lights in town were being turned on too early in the evening and going off too early in the morning. This matter will also be corrected.

Lethbridge Driver Slightly Injured on Tent Mountain Road

A McNeely's truck of Lethbridge left the road and dropped about 30 ft. to come to rest on the bank of the Crow's Nest Creek early on Tuesday morning. The driver suffered cuts and bruises. Damage to the truck is expected to run high.

Instal TV Sets

A number of television antennas are making their appearance atop homes in the Crow's Nest Pass in hopes of being able to receive telecasts from the new Lethbridge CULH-TV station.

A number of local residents have turned sets on and report that the test patterns and sound come in extremely well.

Costa Rica monkey business thrives due to U.S. demand

Monkey business is getting to be such big business in Costa Rica that government officials fear that the monkey population will be decimated as a result. In response to growing U.S. demand for the animals as pets, at least 10 American hunters are engaged in capturing and shipping baby monkeys northward.

Methods of making the captures would be looked on with considerable disfavor by any humane society.

While there are all kinds of monkeys in the Central and South American jungles, the hot, steamy tropical jungles of Costa Rica and southern Nicaragua contain the type most desired as pets, the white face monkey, in quantities. They are not found in any numbers elsewhere in the hemisphere, according to the hunters and exporters.

During the present rainy season these monkeys stay deep in the dense jungles and are difficult to capture. However, starting in December, when the rains cease, and thereafter for a period of six or seven months, an estimated average of between 500 and 600 baby monkeys are shipped out weekly by cargo plane to the U.S.

The largest shipment took place recently when former Air Force pilot Charles Hudson, with his wife as co-pilot, flew out 1,300 of the animals to their home in Santa Barbara, Calif.

Mother dies

American hunters provide natives living in or near the jungle with rifles and ammunition. When the native spies a female monkey with her baby in a tree-top, he shoots her. The mother monkey falls to the ground, her baby still clutching her around the neck. The baby monkey will not leave its dead mother and is easily captured.

The animal collector pays the equivalent of from $1 to $2 to the natives for every baby monkey obtained. The monkeys are brought to San Jose, where they are inoculated and then shipped to the U.S. It is a profitable business for the shippers, as they receive from $25 to $35 for each animal from buyers in the U.S.

Hunters say that buyers will accept only white face monkeys for use as pets since they are friendly, easy to tame and without the rigors of the air shipment better than others. Other types of monkeys here, such as the black face and the howlers, are difficult to train and often bite viciously.

Clyde Lowe, who has been collecting monkeys and other wild animals in this area for the last 20 years, reports that demand from the U.S. exceeds the supply. He points out that, while there is a tremendous monkey population in this area, they are wily, wary and often difficult to see in the dense jungle. Further, he declares, natives by mistake often kill the baby monkey along with the mother.

Traps fail

Lowe admits that the method of capturing the baby monkey is not attractive to him or any of the other American animal collectors and exporters here, but attempts to trap them have proved unsuccessful. In any event, the natives prefer the present method as it gives them the use of a highly prized rifle, something completely beyond the resources of the average Costa Rican poor.

"Under the circumstances," the veteran animal collector says, "as long as people in the United States want monkeys as pets and will pay high prices for them, we will have to provide them."

When a reporter asked a group of American animal exporters gathered recently at the unofficial "animal headquarters" in San Jose, the Pan American Hotel, whether they ever kept a monkey for a pet themselves, the answer was unanimous: "We wouldn't have one of those things around as a pet for a thousand dollars."

SAMPLING?

OKMULGEE, Okla. — George Willie Hall failed to wipe his moustache, and as a result was charged by Federal agents with operating a still.

Alcohol tax unit officers John Stocking and Bill Gibson said they arrested Hall, of Okmulgee, after noticing traces of whisky moustache on his moustache. Further investigation near his home disclosed two barrels of the mash and a 55-gallon cooler.

Fatality toll said higher among boys

School-age accidents account for about 6,000 deaths yearly in the United States, according to a report from the Metropolitan Information Service received by the Health League of Canada.

Among boys five to 14 years old the loss of life from accidents is seven times that from acute poliomyelitis, and nine times the loss from pneumonia and influenza combined, according to the statistics. Among the older elementary school boys—those from 10 to 14—accidents take a greater number of lives than all other causes combined.

Although accidents are not as dominant a factor in the mortality among girls as among boys, they account for more than one-fourth of all deaths and outrank every other cause of death in the 5-14 age range.

Motor vehicle mishaps are by far the leading cause of accidental death, accounting for two-fifths of the fatalities. About three-fifths of the children killed in these accidents were pedestrians.

Drownings ranked second as a cause for accidental death among children, causing one-fourth of the fatalities. Other causes contributing in appreciable measure to the grim total are burns and conflagrations, firearms, accidents, and falls.

The report gives figures showing more deaths due to accidents among boys than among girls, of all three age groups. In the 5-14 age group, there were 2,367 male deaths to 836 female deaths; in the 5-9 group, there were 1,163 male deaths to 592 female deaths; in the 10-14 group there were 1,204 male deaths to 334 female deaths.

The only accident area in which female deaths consistently were higher than male deaths was that of deaths from burns and conflagrations. This is explained by the fact that female children are more likely to be in the kitchen and laundry of the home than boys, and that their clothing is more likely to catch fire.

A report by the statisticians points out that accident prevention constitutes the broadest single area for life conservation among children of elementary school age.

"Since one out of every six of these fatalities occurs in and about the home, it is clear that parents can do much to make the lives of their children safer," the report states.

Famous Danish museum exhibit

One of the most famous Danish archaeological discoveries—the 2,000-year-old Grauballe man—is being exhibited in the Aarhus museum in Denmark for the first time.

The body was discovered three years ago in the Kildebøl in Jutland by some peat workers. The curator of the museum has applied a new method of preserving it in such a way that it should remain indefinitely. Another famous find, the Tollund man, crumbled away when brought to light. But the curator has succeeded in preserving the man.

It is now in a showcase on a layer of peat soil in roughly the same position as when it was unearthed. It is believed that the man was sacrificed to the goddess of fertility, Nerthus.

The skin of the hands is so fine that police have been able to take fingerprints, and the delicate shape of the hands supports the theory that this was no mere thrall but a nobleman who voluntarily submitted to the sacrifice.

Canada's schools best in world

Egypt's school system is in for a remodeling into the Canadian mould when Dr. Moustafa Fahmy, supervisor of humanities and social studies for the minister of education in Cairo, returns home in December.

Dr. Fahmy had little but praise for Canada's school system terming it the happy medium between the too conservative west European systems and the too progressive American system.

"To me, it is one of the best in the world," he summed up. He is on a six-month tour of United States and Canadian schools which he undertook for his government with a view to improving Egypt's educational system.

Banana-filled Marine recruit

A banana-filled Marine Corps recruit boarded a train at Omaha, Neb., recently on his way to basic training after literally eating his way into a Marine uniform.

Roy L. Gish, 17, McCook, Neb., weighed only 98 when he decided to join the Marines several weeks ago. He was told he would have to weigh 105.

Despite some diligent eating in the meantime, he weighed only 102 when he stepped on the scales at the naval personnel centre.

In desperation he bought four pounds of bananas and started in on them, interrupting the banana-eating only long enough to go for a lunch of baked hash.

When he stepped on the scales again he weighed an even 105.

It is claimed that one gallon of gasoline contains as much explosive power as 43 pounds of dynamite.

Grayling thrive in Lac la Ronge

PRINCE ALBERT—A Saskatchewan fisheries branch experiment in game fish stocking has paid off, according to an announcement made here by fisheries director George Coukwell.

He said an Arctic grayling, one of Saskatchewan's most highly-touted game fish species, was caught in Lac la Ronge earlier this month.

The fish, a healthy specimen 12 inches long, weighing 14 ounces and believed to be three to four years old, was taken in a commercial net near the Bow River outlet into Lac la Ronge by Melvor McAuley, a Lac la Ronge fisherman.

The fisheries branch has been stocking Lac la Ronge and tributary waters with grayling for the past seven years and this was the first catch but the stocking had been successful, said Mr. Coukwell.

He said this success warranted continued stocking of grayling in Lac la Ronge. He noted that future commercial fishing and angling on the big lake would serve as a continuing check on progress the grayling make in becoming established.

Lac la Ronge, already famous for its lake trout, pike and pickerel fishing, may soon offer grayling as another prize for sports fishermen.

Fingernail care

A healthy person's finger-nails grow about an inch-and-a-half a year. Those of people who are ill or under-nourished grow less quickly. The nail on the middle finger grows slightly faster than the rest. It takes four and a half months for a finger-nail to grow to its full length. The average man of seventy has renewed his finger-nails about 156 times.

Sask. hogs being used as breeders

REGINA—Fifteen head of purebred Yorkshire hogs from some of Saskatchewan's best known herds were shipped recently to the United States where they will be used on foundation breeding stock, Dr. S. L. Curtis, livestock specialist with the Saskatchewan department of agriculture said recently.

The shipment, one boar and 14 gilts, were purchased by Mr. Howard Henry of Westhope, North Dakota, who will use them as foundation breeding stock in the production of bacon hogs on his farm.

They were selected by Dr. Curtis from the herds of Archie Anderson of Alimpy, Peter Scothorn of Spruce Home, Viggo Jensen of Fir Ridge, A. H. Dyck of Borden, Paul Kermagene of St. Brieux and Charles Hamilton and son of Belle Plaine.

In making the choice of animals, Dr. Curtis said he selected stock with as much advanced registry test records as possible, because Mr. Henry was interested in securing high quality A.P. tested stock for the establishment of his breeding herd.

The boar in the shipment which came from the Kermagene herd, had a pedigree with nine out of 14 ancestral parents having A.P. scores. He showed very good bacon type, Dr. Curtis said, and was one of the top young boars in the Kermagene herd.

The gilts selected while not showing as much A.P. test scores did have a lot of bacon quality and should make excellent foundation breeding material, said Dr. Curtis.

Dr. Curtis pointed out that this shipment should be the forerunner of other shipments of bacon type hogs for breeding stock to the United States. There is also considerable demand for similar breeding stock in both Saskatchewan and other provinces of Canada.

Good meat producing hogs produced through advanced registry tests and strict selection were necessary if farmers were to derive the benefits of this premium market, Dr. Curtis continued, with careful consideration given to body type, quality of bone, good feet and legs and true Yorkshire breed characteristics.

O.H.A. grads making good

THE O.H.A. Junior A League is rapidly becoming the most productive junior hockey league in Canada, if it isn't already. There are five rookies in the NHL this season who played in the O.H.A. Junior A League last season.

Chicago Black Hawks have two rookies this season and both performed in the O.H.A. last year. Hank Cowie, the high-scoring centre, performed with St. Catharines Tee Pee and Hei Lalonde, speedy and aggressive playmaker, scored with the Galt Black Hawks. Larry Hillman, youthful Detroit defenceman, played for Hamilton Tigers Juniors before being called up to the parent Red Wings where he played six games at the tail-end of the season and three playoff contests.

Two of Toronto's three rookies this season started last year in the O.H.A. and both performed with Toronto Juniors, Billy Harris led the Toronto Marlboros to the Memorial Cup while Dickey Duff was the standout on the St. Michael's team.

Should you eat steak before games?

It's been a long-standing tradition in hockey, football and many other sports that steak is the ideal food for the pre-game meal. But study of the accepted facts of nutrition, plus special tests, shows that this isn't so.

Analysis of the food elements in steak shows that it is about 20 percent protein, 70 percent water, plus fat in variable amounts.

Protein just isn't utilized soon enough to be of use to the athlete in the game; water he can get elsewhere; fat, while an energy fuel, is a poor one. Then too, it takes some time to digest a large steak and it's a tough chore for the digestion to handle if the athlete exercises vigorously a couple of hours later. It's liable to leave him feeling slightly lousy.

It should also be remembered that protein is not an energizer; its function is more as a tissue constructor, and if the athlete wants quick energy he would be better off to get it from such quick energy foods as honey, oranges and the citrus fruits.

If the athlete has a tendency to feel empty and hungry when he switches to a steakless pre-game meal, he should be sure to concentrate on easily-digested foods and leave this meal until about two hours before game time.

The time for the athlete to eat his steak is after the game—that's when he needs it for tissue rebuilding after effort. Lots of milk and milk products should also be included in this meal, because they are high in protein value too.

How much sleep does an athlete need?

When calculating the amount of sleep needed by an athlete, it must be remembered that much depends on the individual. Tense athletes sound as a radio receiving set, who find it difficult to relax need more sleep, because tension reduces the recovery rate from their time in bed. Relaxed athletes need less sleep because generally they get more out of it.

It is suggested, however, that the athlete make sure of between eight to 10 hours of sleep per night.

He should remember that the only time his body can recover properly is when he is asleep. He should do everything he can to improve the quality of his sleep by learning to relax properly. Slow, even deep breathing when in bed, letting all the muscles go loose and limp on the exhale, is one good way of promoting relaxed, efficient sleep.

The Sports College book, "Relaxation Is Easy," outlines a complete relaxation program for athletes, as well as anyone affected by tension.

Family steaks on the hoof

Japanese cattle, smaller than their North American counterpart, are a part of the Japanese farm family. They live right in the house. Rooms are built around their stall to take advantage of their bodily warmth in winter, states an Associated Press story from Tokyo.

During the day there's not much to do but loaf in small pens, gaze contentedly at the serene Japanese landscape, or graze in tiny pastures.

The food's good too—occasionally rice and plenty of barley, wheat and bran. With only one or two animals to care for, the farmer lavishes great attention on them. They get a gentle but brisk rubdown every day with handfuls of straw. Farmers say this rubs the outer layer where it belongs.

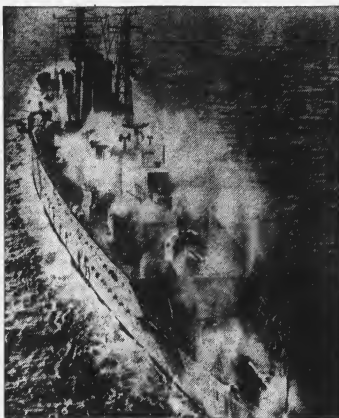

This goes on for six years—that's right, six years—and then comes the payoff. If the farmer did his job right, the meat will come out a deep, glossy red rimmed with a thin layer of fat. Throughout there will be flecks of "fallen frost," or fat.

Now you're in for a treat. Soak it for two hours in soy sauce, sprinkle well with garlic salt and then slap it on a grill. The result is one of the greatest treats of the Orient.

New type machine

A new type of milk vending machine has been introduced in Canada which will dispense a six-ounce cup of milk to sell at a nickle. Each machine has a capacity of 200 cups per day on an filling of eight gallons. The milk is fed from the container to the cup by means of a polyethylene tube, worth about 15 cents, which can be discarded after each usage.

"SMOKE SCREEN" FOR THE ATOM AGE—HMS Cumberland appears to be on fire as the British cruiser steams through exercises off the island of Malta in the Mediterranean. "Smoke" is actually mist from a special sprinkling system which keeps the entire ship wet down. Purpose of the spray is to wash away atomic fallout in event of an atomic attack.

Butter in pats

Canadian butter is now being sold to restaurants in preformed pats. Restaurateurs have said that at the few cents more per pound they pay for the packaged butter, they are saving money and that time and butter are not wasted in cutting it and uniform pats are served.

An Ontario Creamerymen's Association bulletin says another dividend in this set-up is the fact that fifty pats are identifiable as butter, giving confidence that the better article is being served.

Satisfied

Some circus lions apparently want no part of freedom.

Driving along a highway near Geneva, N.Y., a motorist spotted a circus truck moving along with its tailgate wide open. Viewing with alarm a lion roaming around "free" inside, he stopped to telephone police.

Alerted by a sheriff's deputy the next town, the driver of the circus van quickly braked to a halt and looked up the tailgate. The lion didn't rumble a protest—or even make a move to escape.

Surface drainage

Surface drainage by itself is not a remedy for all poorly drained land, but according to D. J. Cooper of the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa, Canada department of Agriculture, it will at least improve conditions and in some cases be adequate.

After the crop has been removed is the time when most drainage work must be done on the farm. By that time the farmer should have plans made concerning what drainage work he proposes to carry out. The amount and type of drainage work will, of course, vary from farm to farm, and will be governed by the time that is available and the cash outlay contemplated.

In its simplest form surface drainage may consist of plover scores located in such a way as to drain out low spots. Dead furrows are often used in surface drainage but if they are to perform efficiently they must be sloped. An extra cut or two with a plow through high spots in a dead furrow may be necessary.

Headlands are frequently a source of trouble in blocking off dead furrows. If this is the case suitable outlets should be provided. Another factor in good drainage management involves filling in low spots in a field. This is an operation which some farmers attempt to do over a period of years as time permits when the field is in fallow.

Surface drainage work has been used at the Central Experimental Farm in Ottawa with reasonable success. The program consists of shallow bottom surface ditches spaced at intervals of 75 to 150 feet. The land between the ditches is smoothed and leveled to take care of the low spots and surface water is diverted to collection ditches by minor grading. In some cases this method of drainage has permitted spring cultivation from one to two weeks earlier than on undrained land.

Drainage methods of this nature have special application in areas where the value of land does not warrant the higher cost of tile drainage. Conditions may also arise where outlets are not deep enough for the drainage and soil texture may be so impermeable to allow tile drainage to work efficiently.

Horticulture Expert Dies—William Ferguson, an official of the Central Experimental Farm who was nationally known for his work in horticulture, died September 29 at Ottawa, after a long illness. He was 48.

Mr. Ferguson was in charge of the vegetable section of the Horticulture Division at the Experimental Farm since 1945. During this period he made particular contributions in the fields of breeding new varieties of seed, feed production and chemical weed control.

He was an officer of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association and since June of this year vice-president of the Agricultural Institute of Canada. 3167

Celebrate Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison

Mr. and Mrs. William Harrison were pleasantly surprised on Saturday evening when friends gathered at their home to surprise them on their 50th wedding anniversary.

The couple were united in marriage in the city of West Hartlepool, Durham, England, on November 14, 1905. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Muir, sister and brother-in-law of the groom were attendants.

Mr. Harrison came to Canada in 1910, settling in Coleman in 1915. He joined the Canadian army and went overseas with the 192nd battalion. He returned to Coleman in 1919 when Mrs. Harrison and their three small children joined him. They have resided here since.

They are the proud parents of five children: Edith and May in Vancouver; Benjamin of Calgary; Amy in Coleman, and one son, William "Billy" Jr., who lost his life in Italy during World War II. There are five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Acting as hostess for the evening, Mrs. Army Wright, daughter of the honor couple, presented her mother with a corsage and her father with a boutonniere. Mrs. G. Clarke, on behalf of the friends assembled presented them with a deep fryer.

A buffet lunch was served with the table being beautifully decorated and centred with a lovely three-tiered wedding cake.

Approximately 15 couples enjoyed the evening. Dancing and games were enjoyed by all. The highlight of the evening was the cutting of the cake by the couple with pictures of the event being taken by Mr. E. Goulding of Bellevue. Out of town guests were from Bellevue, Blairmore and Hillcrest.

1954. Mr. Spears had been sent out to adjust the loss which was covered by insurance.

Evidence given showed that on September 8, 1954, the accused was riding in a car with the insurance adjuster Herbert Spears and that Molema had put $200 in the adjuster's pocket. At the trial, Spears' evidence indicated there was no conversation with the accused regarding the $200. Molema said that the money was given to Spears to get a proper adjustment on the fire loss. T. J. Costigan of Blairmore, acted for Molema.

Theatre Notes

There will be a very interesting family film, "Never Take No For An Answer" playing at the Roxy Theatre on Dec. 6 and 7. This film should have a great appeal to you people because it shows the scenes of the Vatican; also the most world famous museum in the Vatican which has never before been filmed.

The little boy in the picture is an orphan and is put in an orphanage by an American soldier after his Mom and Dad are killed in a bombing raid during the war. The boy has a pet donkey which he uses to do odd chores around town in order to make a living. One day the donkey gets terribly ill and the little boy tries everything possible to get to see the Pope so that he might get permission from him to take the donkey into the Church of St. Francis and pray for it.

The Priest, Father Domino, of the nearby Church of St. Francis looks after the boy's schooling and general welfare.

This film encourages us and our children to have faith in our loved ones. It is heart-warming and is highly recommended, having been awarded the Patent Magazine Medal, as being one of the best family pictures.

If the children have played havoc with the panels of their bedroom door, cover the marred surfaces with the wallpaper used to decorate the room, being sure the pattern lines up with that on the walls.

DR. HUGO THEORELL, a Swedish biochemist, pours champagne after being awarded the Nobel Prize for medicine in Stockholm. He was awarded the prize for his research into how the human body converts food into energy.

SCHNOZZOLA RECEIVES GIFT—Comedian Jimmy Durante's most prominent feature provides a major test for this protective football helmet with nose guard. Jimmy was given the helmet after entertaining University of California students at a homecoming on their Los Angeles campus.

FRAU MARGARET BLAWIE visits the repatriation camp of Friedland every day in this special dress, on which she has embroidered the name of her husband, who is missing in Russia. A picture of him seen on her blouse, she feels, is a more effective way of searching for information than just posting his name on the notice board.

HARVESTS TOP REWARD—Named "Star Farmer of America," Joe Moore, 21, receives a congratulatory kiss from his fiancée, Ann Hoffman. Moore was named "Star Farmer" by the Future Farmers of America, meeting in convention at Kansas City, Mo. He hails from Granville, Tenn.

FLIER TO COMMAND—An army pilot with about a thousand hours flying experience is the new commanding officer for the 1st Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery. Formerly officer commanding the Light Aircraft School, he is Lt. Col. N. W. Rollender, Col. Rollender (right), succeeds a soldier who wears a parachutist's wings, Lt. Col. R. M. D. Leslie, son of Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton. Col. Leslie has been posted to the directorate of weapons development.

NO ILLUSION—This picture should leave any potential enemy with no illusion concerning U.S. Air Force fire power. As firing flames envelop wing pods of this B-29C Superfortress, double salvo of rockets streaks toward target on the firing range at Yuma Air Force Base, Arizona. Electronic equipment guides rocket aiming and launching from the moment target is sighted on radar. The 600-miles-per-hour-plus fighter-interceptor packs four dozen rockets in wing pods and nose.

COLORFUL DESIGN FROM PARIS—This eight-inch necklace of jewels comprising rose quartz, baroque turquoise, agate, colored moonstones and pearls suspended from clusters of rose stones is typical of the colorful array of costume jewelry designed by Christian Dior. This piece is called "Fontainebleau" and is surprisingly light in weight. This jewelry is made in England.

THEY'LL FARM SOUTH-AMERICAN STYLE—Six months of work on South American farms is ahead for these 4-H Club members, meeting at Pan American Union headquarters in Washington, D.C. Dr. Anibal Butron, right, shows them examples of Aztec art. Chosen for their outstanding work in the national 4-H organization, they'll make the trip under the International Farm Youth Exchange program. From left, standing: Charles Dunham, Gooding, Ida; Kenneth Morgan, Phillipsburg, Kan.; Billy Perkins, Howard, Kan.; Lawrence Fenske, Hankstson, N.D.; Gayle Gilmour, Jefferson, Ore. Seated, from left: Donald Erickson, Centennial, Wyo.; May Ann Moon, Amiret, Minn.; Farrell Wankler, Jr., Levan, Utah; Mary Louise Ansberry, San Ardo, Calif.

PAPER WORK

The United States Post Office Department has disposed of enough old records and forms in the last fiscal year to fill some 170 freight cars, according to a department spokesman.

BERLIN AND FREEDOM—Joachim Loew, 89, and his 87-year-old wife Maria celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary in Berlin. Five years ago the couple were forced to flee from their home in Pomerania, in northwestern Poland, and seek refuge with their children.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

THE ICICLE

By LEONARD BUTTS

AT TWENTY-NINE, Barclay Adams, accountant and tax expert, had gained some friends and lost some by his frankness. And sometimes, it amused him to be frank with girls even to the degree of exaggeration, especially as to his preference for bachelorhood. That is, until he'd met Linda Parsons, who was frank, too, and cold.

Her face reminded Barclay of Sue Jennings, a girl he'd liked once, almost enough to marry. But he'd dallied, so she had married another.

Now, this was Barclay's second day of his vacation. It was also his second attempt to gain some sign of encouragement from "the icicle." He'd tried to get acquainted the day before, but apparently he hadn't been frank enough. Or maybe it was because he'd had his clothes on and she'd been suitably bare. Anyway she'd ignored his six feet of virility.

"Ah, there you are," he greeted, pulling himself from the water a few feet from where Linda sat.

"Good morning," she said with apathy.

"Been in yet?" he asked.

"No," she said, scooping up a hand full of sand.

He sank down and grinned. It was the same persuasive grin forming the same dimple in his right cheek. But she seemed more concerned with the mound of sand that her elegant hands were forming.

At least she was affording him a good look. She was slender and taller than the average, with curves in the right places. Barclay placed her age at about twenty-five.

"Having a good time?" he ventured.

"What do you think?" she asked, without lifting her eyes.

"You could have a better time."

"So could you," she said, lifting her neatly arched brows. "Why don't you join that group on the float?"

"Not interested, thanks."

A little wrinkle appeared between her brows as she looked about. "There's a nice-looking girl over yonder. Sitting alone, maybe waiting for somebody like you."

Barclay chuckled. "I saw her first. No originality. She's just like thousands of others. Line them all up, shut your eyes and pick one."

She shook her head and turned her attention to her mound of sand.

"All right, Miss Icicle," he said, rising. "Think I'll get wet again."

"Good," she said without looking up.

With head erect and lips tight, he strode toward the springboard, wondering why he'd noticed her in the first place.

Yet, on the board, his eyes sought Linda, and found her slipping into the water. He dived, came up and plunged in her direction, cutting the water with smooth strokes.

She was about seventy-five feet from him but swimming toward the hotel. And she swam like a veteran. Barclay quickened his strokes. He started to yell but changed his mind. There was a woman who was used to water. Another surprise. And now she was leaving him behind. Still another surprise.

It was useless to strain himself more. He couldn't overtake her now anyway. There were no other bathers in that part of the lake, so it was easy to keep her cap-spotted. She was changing her course. But Barclay was losing his power. His legs were getting heavy. Which convinced him that he'd become softer than he'd thought.

Thank goodness, she was heading for the shore fifty yards away.

She was there when Barclay pulled himself out, panting and feigning interest in a rock at the water's edge, playing for time until he could speak without effort.

"You did pretty well," she said.

"But what have you gained?"

"He waited until he sat down beside her. "Another chance to talk to you."

She bent her knees and wrapped her arms around them. For a moment she just sat there, her lips tightening. Slowly, the tightness around her lips eased, and for the first time she revealed her teeth. White and even they were.

"Just why do you want to talk to me?"

"Because you're the only woman I've ever cared for enough to chase."

"And you know nothing in the world about me."

"I'm ready to listen."

"Well, you asked for it. I happen to be a widow, with two children, a boy five and a girl four."

"Divorced?" he managed.

"No," she said softly. "My husband died a year ago."

He picked up a stick and poked at the ground. Anything to regain control. He was a widower at figures. But this one had him flummoxed. If she were only twenty-five, she'd done too well.

"You look young to have a child five."

"Thanks," she said. "I'm twenty-eight."

"Three years older than I guessed."

"Now you know," she said, "why you should have looked another way."

He was quick at figures. And he figured that if he'd married Sue Jennings at twenty-three, he'd probably been the father of at least two. But instead, he'd yielded to a rival, who was not the father of three.

"I still think — I looked the right way."

"I wonder," she said calmly.

He moved closer. Then suddenly, as if in a dream, he put his arm around her shoulders and kissed her.

"Now is that nice?" she said, turning her head.

"Very," he said with emphasis.

Then Barclay told her about himself, frankly and without reserve. He told her about his promising accounting profession. And modestly, she told him about the estate, the home and other property her husband had left her.

Until Barclay, an expert at figures, was sure he'd looked the right way.

HONORED BY THE QUEEN—Dr. Alfred Schweitzer, 80-year-old missionary, musician, philosopher and Nobel Prize winner, travels by train to London after arriving from Africa. Dr. Schweitzer, who for 41 years has been physician to obscure lepers in Africa's Congo, was invested with the Order of Merit by The Queen. It is one of the most restricted and cherished orders The Queen can bestow.

Funny and Otherwise

The curate of a country church had preached a charity sermon, and after the service he was told by one of the wardens that the collection amounted to $25.00.

"Well," said the curate with pardonable pride, "that proves that my sermon touched them."

"No doubt it did," replied the warden, "but Mr. Rich left in a $20 bill, and he's dead."

"It's all nonsense about the Irish being great fighters."

"How do you make that out?"

"Well, you know Mike O'Rafferty who lives on our street? Last night my brother and I and a couple of other fellows knocked him silly."

She: "I left my husband when I caught him cheating at poker."

Her: "What did he do, have an ace up his sleeve?"

She: "No, he had a queen on his lap."

Tom: I saw you talking to a young girl in a bus stop.

Dick: Why, I only asked her the time.

Tom: You must be awfully absent-minded. I saw you writing it down.

♦ ♦ ♦ ♦ ♦

"Miss Helen," said the Negro parson impressively, as he led her into the brook for baptism, "I see you lead you out into the brook stream, an' wash out every spot of sin you've got."

"Lawdy, parson," giggled the exuberant frolicsome Helen, "an' that be of shallow creek!"

"By Jove, old man, your walls are thin! You can hear the next-door radio just as though it were in this room."

"I'll say the walls are thin! Why, when I get a headache the fellow next door takes two aspirins."

Little Willie hurried off to school one morning before his mother could inspect his wash jug. So, when he sat down in the classroom, breakfast was still visible on his face.

The teacher frowned, and said, reprovingly, "Willie, you didn't wash your face. What would you say if I came to school with eggs and jam around my mouth?"

"Nothing," retorted Willie. "I'd be too polite."

Study of 50,000 appendixes prove uselessness to body

If 50,000 human appendixes can't be wrong, then its uselessness in the human body is matched by an uncanny ability to get the body into trouble, according to a story by Dolores Smith from New York.

For 32 years now hospitals in three cities have been massing surgically removed appendixes, giving that organ such a concerted look-see as few organs have ever had. The study has just been called off, with the 50,000th appendix.

Inside the 50,000 the scientific explorers found such items as bubble gum, lead shot, toothpicks, screws, nails, fish and chicken bones, needles, safety pins, bits of plastic, pins, and pieces of assorted metals.

They also found members of 19 different families of fungi and 18 varieties of parasitic worms. Appendixes had been affected by 25 specific diseases, not one of which is a disease of the appendix primarily.

Twelve kinds of benign tumors were found, and 16 kinds of malignant ones. And there were 10 different sicknesses which had originated in the appendix—sicknesses which weren't "appendicitis."

Found no clue

Yet the 50,000 provided no reason for anyone who has never been troubled by his appendix to start feeling troubled now. Something like half the 50,000 were found, on close examination, to be "within the realm of normalcy."

The final report was made by Dr. Donald C. Collins, of the college of medical evangelists, Los Angeles in a technical journal of the American College of surgeons. There had been 22 previous reports over the 32 years, each dealing with a separate phase of the new appendectomy lore.

The hospitals were in San Francisco, Rochester, Minn., and Los Angeles, and the United States Army Medical Department co-operated during the war. Each appendix removed was subjected to minute scientific examination. The findings, together with microscopic samples and slides, were sent to Dr. Collins for mass comparisons and for tabulating.

Two appendixes

Oddly, the 50,000 appendixes came from 49,999 persons. One surgeon, having opened his patient, was astonished to find two appendixes. But 12,018 appendixes were "either perforated or gangrenous—it was a good thing the surgeons went in after them."

"Happily," Dr. Collins said, "it can be reported that in this particular study there has been no hospital mortality for instances of acute appendicitis in the last 32 years." The specific reduction was from 13.09 per cent. mortality in 1925 to 0.01 per cent. in 1955.

Spreading of fungi, a very useful discovery yielded by the 50,000 was an unexpected liking of histoplasma capsulatum for the appendix. That is a kind of fungus which causes histoplasmosis and which other medical references classify starkly as, "a fatal disease." However, the study revealed that there are benign forms—benign, that is, when found in the specific appendixes studied.

B.C. gardener said have rare black tulips

An amateur gardener of Surrey, B.C., says he's got three black tulips.

Ray Fahlan has had them in his garden in this community 25 miles east of Vancouver for six years.

He just can't wait for spring to come around for the bulbs to bloom again because a Dutch grower is reported willing to pay $100,000 for a genuine black tulip bulb.

Mr. Fahlan said he always looked on his tulips as freaks until he saw a caption to a photo in a Vancouver newspaper telling of the Dutchman's offer.

"They're as black as the ace of spades and I'd like to grow a few more," he said.

He says he'll spend the winter reading about his freaks. And when spring comes, "I won't be able to get in touch with Holland fast enough."

Tulip experts at the Experimental Farm in Ottawa state that they were "extremely skeptical" about the chances of a genuine black tulip having been grown.

Dr. F. L. Dore, an associate chief of the Botany and Plant Pathology Laboratory, said the likelihood of a real mutation or change of color to produce the coveted black bloom was "certainly remote."

By growing seedlings and doing cross-pollination, there might be something like a 100,000-to-one chance of getting something "a little different to other name varieties," he suggested. "But as to a genuine black tulip, I would not be surprised if it's impossible."

Many blooms which appear blackish are in reality very dark purple, such as the name variety "Tulpe Noire" and some others popular several years ago, he said.

Crash results in re-union

BLOUNTSTOWN, Fla. — A weekend automobile accident reunited a Panama City, Fla. father and a son he hadn't seen in 12 years.

A driver crashed his car into the rear of Carey Hughes' boat trailer, causing about $1,200 damage.

After police jailed the 25-year-old driver on reckless driving charges, Hughes learned that the younger man's name was also Carey Hughes.

He investigated and discovered the man was his son, Eldridge Carey Hughes of Ozard, Ala., whom he had not seen since separating from his wife 12 years ago.

Hughes posted bail for his son and they left the jail for a reunion.

Former Pass Miner Dies in Penitenti

BELLEVUE — Word was received here Wednesday of the death on Nov. 22 of William Prescott, a former resident of Bellevue, now residing in Penitenti, B.C.

Mr. Prescott, 72, was born in England and came to Canada in 1905. He worked for a short time in the Brule mines in Alberta after which he came to Bellevue. He worked in the old Hillcrest mine and was one of the rescue workers who helped remove miners from the Hillcrest Colliery in the 1914 disaster. He worked in the Bellevue mines and was a fireboss for many years. He was married in the Coleman Anglican Church. The family left Bellevue six years ago. He was a member of the Bellevue Oddfellows lodge and helped build the present hall.

He is survived by his wife Nellie living in Penitenti, B.C. Funeral services were conducted from the United Church in Penitenti at 2 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 25 and interment took place in the Penitenti cemetery.

One Injured In Traffic Accident

HILLCREST — Andrew Craig of Hillcrest encountered difficulty on the icy Crow's Nest Pass roads recently when his car slid into a parked semi-trailer on No. 3 highway two miles east of Bellevue. A passenger in Mr. Craig's car, Ed Bosley of Bellevue, sustained a lacerated nose while the car was damaged to the extent of approximately $400.

The truck had stalled on a small grade and the driver G. E. Leask of Calgary had put out flares and was in the act of spreading some sand on the road when Mr. Craig came alone intending to stop and assist the trucker. His car began sliding and bumped into the truck.

Truck Fire In Pass

The Blairmore fire brigade, answering a call Wednesday morning, found that it was a burning truck engine. The fire was put out with extinguishers. It would seem the driver of the truck was unable to start the motor as the truck had been kept in an unheated garage. In order to warm the engine a blow torch was put under the oil pan and some oil that was on the side of the engine caught fire. Damage was light.
